

The 2025 Disabled Poets Prize is now open for entries from deaf and disabled people aged 18+ based in the UK.

The Prize is looking to find the best, original poetry created by deaf and disabled writers.

The Disabled Poets Prize is free to enter and has two categories:

- Best single poem
- Best unpublished pamphlet

It offers financial and development prizes for 6 shortlisted winners in each category.

This year's judges are Polly Atkin, Khairani Barokka and Jamie Hale.

You can enter online, or by post. Entries are open from 9am Monday 9 September, and close at 1pm on Monday 4 November 2024.
